

THE JABRA BT5020 BLUETOOTH HUB & HEADSET

The BT5020 allows you to use a Bluetooth headset on your office desk phone.

The A7010 Bluetooth Hub connects in between the phone and the handset, it also has an auxiliary port for a handset lifter to pick up calls when you are away from your desk.

You can pair a Bluetooth headset to work with the A7010 on your phone at your desk as well as your cell phone, so the Bluetooth headset you use to take and make calls all day at work can also answer calls that come to your cell phone.

You can only pair one Bluetooth headset per Hub but you can pair one headset with two Hubs if you work sometimes in the office and other times from home, but if you do this you can not have it paired with your cell phone.

You can pair the Bluetooth headset to work with more than one Cellular phone so if you have a Sprint cell phone in your pocket and a Verizon mobile phone in your car.

If your office phone rings then and you press the answer button on the headset you will answer that call, and if you are not on a call and your cell phone rings you press the same button on the headset and answer your cell phone.

This would be a convenient way to handle calls for Real Estate or salespeople that have their cell phone number on their business cards as well as their office number.
